Many thanks to our registration system provider: CincyTicket solutions.

Cincinnati Parks has always believed in the importance of nature in a child's development. There is compelling evidence that frequent play in nature is essential for the healthy development of all children. Current research shows that time spent outdoors in nature helps children avoid obesity, concentrate better, and handle stressful life events. Parks' Summer Nature Camps help children grow up healthy by emphasizing outdoor exploration, hiking, active games, and hands-on participation in discovery.
